Animal rights is about letting animals live on their own terms. It can be written into our laws, but is not an actual list or bill of rights as we have for human society. It begins with our promises not to act like ___75___ of others. Animal rights is about justice — treating animals fairly.

Why is animal rights necessary? It is because we humans often act as though we are the only beings on the planet. Although we depend on other animals for our very survival, humans are the only animals that have upset the balance of nature. There are lots of ways that humans exploit (剥削) animals. We domesticate them and use them for food, even though our nutritional needs can be completely supplied by a(n) ___76___ diet. Although other materials are available, we use animal's skin and other body parts for clothing, furs, hats, boots, jewellery and even pet toys. Humans can talk about it but animals cannot. All animals wish to experience life in its fullness. Unlike many animals who have to kill to survive, humans do not. Why should humans cause ___77___ to other beings when it's not necessary?

As we do, animals protect their children; they feel fear; they warn each other of dangers; they play. We might differ from other animals in some ways, but that doesn't give us the right to chase them down, take their lands, pollute their waters, or use them for our conveniences. Animals also experience pain and it's not difficult to observe observe of pain in the way a conscious being reacts to it. We take advantage, cause distress, and act ___78___ when we use animals for amusement. Lots of pets are left on the streets when their owners no longer find it convenient or affordable to keep or care for them.

Whether we admit it or not, it's a prejudice to think we are superior to animals and that it is our right to control them, which can only make people act mean, hateful or neglectful. However, each of us has within us the power to ____79____. We can adopt a different attitude, one that reshape our destiny. This will have wonderful effects on the planet's other communities, for life is ____80____ avoiding suffering. It is interacting, singing, pursuing joy. We humans can learn to live responsibly, with respect, kindness and love.

C. Read the passage and fill in the blanks with proper words.

When did you last visit a shopping mall? In many places, the answer would be “last weekend.” Some people go even more often. Why? For one thing, malls o_____ goods and services that people need all in one place: food, clothing, things for their houses, entertainment, even medical services. So, are malls one of the highlights of modern civilization? Environmental activists would go even f_____ and say that consumer behavior is causing a huge environmental disaster. They cause consumers of ignorance of the side effect of their shopping—urban sprawl (城市扩张).

Social scientists agree that patterns of development have changed the landscape a great deal in the last half century. Before 1950, most people lived in towns or cities and e_____ walked to work or took public transportation. Only very wealthy people had automobiles. Farmers lived in rural areas or isolated villages and came into town only when they needed things they couldn't produce t_____. If you gazed at the landscape you would see towns surrounded by countryside. Then a massive change occurred.

Automobiles became affordable and people were quick to adopt them. Now ambitious workers could live in the suburbs, the areas just outside cities, which started to grow rapidly. As long as there was lots of cheap land in the suburbs, no one paid much attention to the usage of that land. Malls, fast food restaurants, cinemas, and car dealerships spread out in large, flat buildings. These one-storey buildings and their parking lot took up a great deal space. Well— meaning farmers thought they were better off selling their land than growing crops. In ignorance, no one r_____ once the land was built up in urban sprawl, the good farming land would be ruined forever. There was no way to preserve it.

Only in recent years have people come to mourn the old way of life as they have developed insight into the problems. Now people realize that urban sprawl has come with serious e_____ problems. The negative aspects of sprawl include air and water pollution, loss of agricultural land, traffic jams, and the death of businesses in the old town centers. Many scholars think the time has come to analyze the problems better so we can develop appropriate policies to c_____ further sprawl. Some think the best way to do is to educate citizens

D. Answer the questions

One day , a young man was standing in the middle of the town, boasting that he had the most beautiful heart in the world. A large crowd gathered to have a look at his heart, which was smooth and shiny and looked very healthy. Indeed, they agreed that the man had the most beautiful heart they had ever seen.

Suddenly, an old man appeared and said, “ Your heart is not nearly as beautiful as mine>”

The crowd and the young man looked at the old man’s heart --- it had scars all over it. It had places where pieces had been removed and other pieces were put in . In some places there were deep holes where whole pieces were missing.

The young man laughed and said, “ Compared with your heart, mine is perfect. Yours is just as mess of scars.”

“ Yes,” said the old man. “ Yours looks perfect but I would never trade my heart for yours. Every scar in my heart represents a person to whom I have given my love. I tear out a piece of my heart and give it to them. Often they give me a piece of theirs in return. Some pieces may not perfectly fit my heart, so you can see some uneven edges. These scars and uneven edges remind me of the love we shared.”

The old man continued, “Sometimes I would give a piece of my heart away, and the other person may not return a piece of his heart to me. It then becomes an empty hole. Although these holes are painful , they remind me of the love I have for these people. So now do you see what true beauty is?”

The young man stood silently with tears running down his cheeks. He tore a piece of his perfect heart out and offered it to the old man. The old man placed the piece into his scarred heart. and then took a piece from his and placed it in the young man’s heart.

Looking at his heart, which was not perfect anymore but more beautiful than ever, the young man felt love since love from the old man’s heart flowed into his.
