短文改错

I got up early this morning, so I went to school without breakfast. I walked in so a hurry that I stepped on a banana peel dropped by an old man late such walking in front of me. As ^ result, I slipped and fell in my back. I am so angry that I wanted to blame the old man, so I controlled myself at last. I picked out the banana peel, put it into the dustbin but up and running to school. The class had begun, but I was very happy because I did that what I should do to protect our ran environment.

Dear Brooke,

I am writing to tell you that I took the English Speech Contest held in my school yesterday. As the only one from my class, I had to challenge the other 15 excellent participants selected from the whole school. When it came to me to present, I got a little bit nervous at first, but soon I calmed down at the thought of your words and suggestions.

As you predicted, everything went smoothly and I performed perfectly. Although the question-and-answer section was the most challenging, I managed to get through it properly with the techniques you taught me. When the judge announced the result, I wasn't at all surprised but quite excited! I got the first prize in the contest. Thank you very much for your unselfish and careful help.

I'm looking forward to your return to China. I'd like to show you the contest video.

Yours,

Li Hua
