At about 2:00 a.m., my phone rang. It was Kerrie's mother. I could hear the 24 in her voice. "Kerrie's been in an accident," she said. My mind began racing in fear.

“She was hit by a truck,” her mother continued to say, “ 25, it wasn’t too bad. She has got a fracture (骨折). The doctor said she would be OK in a month.”

After taking control of my thoughts again, I 26 to calm down and hurried to the hospital.

Over the next few days, I learned more about what had happened. Kerrie had wanted to 27 in so badly at the party that she tried to please everyone. After the party, some girls told her to get a taxi for them. While Kerrie was standing in the cold waiting for a taxi, a truck came out of nowhere and hit her.

In the following weeks, I visited Kerrie every day. However, no one at the party ever came to see her, even the girls that she had tried to get a taxi for.

It was Kerrie’s birthday when she left the hospital. I asked her what she wanted and she told me she had already received the greatest gift from me—unconditional love and true friendship since I had always been there to 28 her no matter what happened.

During the war, my husband was stationed at an army camp in a desert in California. I went to live there in order to be 29 him. I hated the place. I had never before been so unhappy. My husband was ordered out on a long-term duty, and I was left in a tiny shack (棚屋) alone. The heat was 30, almost 53°C even in the shade of a cactus (仙人掌). Not a soul to talk to. The wind blew non-stop, and all the food I ate, and the very air I breathed, were 31 with sand, sand, sand !

I was so sorry for myself that I wrote to my parents. I told them I was 32 and coming back home. I said I couldn’t stand it one minute longer. I would rather be in prison! My father answered my letter with just two lines—two lines that will always sing in my memory—two lines that completely changed my life:

Two men looked out from prison bars

One saw the mud, the other saw the stars

I read those two lines over and over. I was ashamed of myself. I made up my mind I would find out what was good in my present situation; I would look for the stars.

I made friends with the natives, and their reaction amazed me. They gave me presents of their favorite artworks which they had 33 to sell to tourists. I studied the delightful forms of the cactus. I watched for the desert sunsets, and hunted for seashells that had been left there millions of years ago when the desert had been an ocean 34.

What brought about this astonishing change in me? The desert hadn't changed, but I had. I had changed my 35. And by doing so, I changed an unhappy experience into the most amazing adventure of my life. I was excited by this new world that I had discovered I had looked out of my self-created prison and 36 the stars.

“Will you give my kite a lift?” asked my nephew to his sister. Lucy took it up and threw it into the air, but her brother didn’t pay attention and ran off, so the kite fell down. “Try again, children,” I said.

Lucy once more took up the kite. But John ran off so suddenly that the kite flew out of her hand and it fell flat as before. “Try again,” I said.

They did, and with more care, but a side wind came suddenly. As Lucy let go of the kite, it was blown against some bushes and the tail was caught. Meanwhile, I went to the kite’s assistance and set the tail free from the bushes. I told them to find a more open area and then try again.

We found an open area. I threw the kite up as John ran off. It rose up and promised a high flight. But John was so pleased that he stopped short to look upward. The string became loose. The kite shook and came down to the ground. “I won’t try anymore. The kite won’t fly.” said he angrily. I replied, “A few disappointments are not supposed to discourage us. And now try again.”

And he tried and succeeded, for the kite was carried upward on the breeze as lightly as a feather. After enjoying the sight, excited, John began to roll up the string slowly. “Shall we come out tomorrow and try again?”

I smiled, “Yes, dear children. I wish to teach you the value of keeping trying. Whenever you fail, remember—TRY AGAIN!”

39. Why was the tail of the kite caught in the bushes?

C*EP Portable Heater

We all know that the cost of heating our homes will continue to be a significant burden on the family budget. Now millions of people are saving on their heating bills with the EP Portable Heater. With over one million satisfied customers around the world, the new EP heats better and faster, saves more on heating bills, and runs almost silent.

The EP has no exposed heating parts that can cause a fire. The outside of EP only gets warm to the touch so that it will not burn children or pets.

The EP will not reduce oxygen in the room. With other heaters, you'll notice that you get sleepy when the heat comes on because they are burning up oxygen.

The advanced EP also heats the room evenly, wall to wall and floor to ceiling. It comfortably covers an area up to 350 square feet. Other heaters heat rooms unevenly with most of the heat concentrated to the center of the room. And they only heat an area a few feet around the heater. With the EP, the temperature will not vary in any part of the room.

The EP comes with a 3-year warranty (保修) and a 60-day satisfaction guarantee. If you are not totally satisfied, return it to us and your money will be given back to you.

Now, we have a special offer for 10 days, during which you can enjoy a half price discount and a free delivery. If you order that, we reserve the right to either accept or reject order requests at the discounted price.

A Good Night's Sleep

Sleep plays an important role in good health and well-being throughout your life. While you're sleeping, your brain is forming new pathways to help you learn and remember information. Although we all know the importance of getting a good night's sleep, not all of us know the best way of getting it. A sleep expert, Phil Atherton, gave some top tips for getting the most out of the night, which will leave you ready for action in the morning.

According to Phil Atherton, not eating a large meal before bedtime is important for getting a good night's sleep. The time difference between eating and sleeping should be at least three hours. So you'd better avoid eating any food three hours before bed, as it will lower your blood sugar during sleep and help reduce damage from too much sugar floating around.

It's also important to find ways to prepare your body for sleep. You can follow a routine like trying not to expose yourself to too much artificial light within one hour before bed, as your brain uses light to help set internal “body clock”. Although it might seem unnatural to schedule your sleep, the purpose is to send a signal to your body and mind that it’s time to sleep.

Another way to prepare your body for sleep is to get into a relaxed state by taking a bath or listening to soft music. Both of them will help to take the mind off the daytime stress.

Having a suitable bed, especially a suitable mattress (床垫), is necessary for a good night’s sleep. Sleep is a personalized activity, and we all adopt different sleeping positions. Finding the mattress that suits you will reduce back pains that can result from a poor sleeping position. The bed should be four to six inches longer than its tallest user, allowing for space to move around.

The recent research is pretty clear that a good night’s sleep is a major part of good health. Since the start of the 21st century, studies have linked a lack of sleep to many illness, such as diabetes and obesity. Taking action now will lead to long-term benefits for you and those around you.

45. What does the author intend to tell us in the passage?
- A. When to start a sound sleep.
  - B. How to get a good night’s sleep.
  - C. What to do with sleep problems.
  - D. Why to form a good habit of sleeping.
46. According to the author, before going to sleep, you’d better _____.
- A. do something relaxing
  - B. check your blood sugar
  - C. reduce your pain in the back
  - D. record your biological clock
47. What does the underlined word “it” in Paragraph 2 refer to?
- A. Not eating food.
  - B. Eating too much.
  - C. Not sleeping well.
  - D. Having a good sleep.

As you probably know, clothing has been around since the time of Adam and Eve—and it’s become a lot more complicated than those early fig leaf designs. On the other hand, electronics have been with us for only a few hundred years—beginning with Franklin running round with his portable lightning rod. With gadgets (小电子产品) more popular than ever these days, digital fashion, a combination of clothing and electronics, is simply inevitable.

First let me mention a line of jackets launched in the fall of 2013 by Royal Philips’ Electronics and Levis Strauss Corporation. Philip’s original press release called it “mixing fashion and technology in the creation of work wear for the digital age”. I love that kind of talk. Each design is said to contain a simple body area network using wires placed into various parts of the jacket. What it really does is allow one to use a Philips’ GSM mobile phone and MP3 player in the jacket—all controlled by a unified remote.

A company named Vivo Metrics has designed a different type of electronic garment. It's called Lifeshirt, and it's an ambulatory monitoring system stuffed into a flexible, washable T-shirt. Vivo Metrics has built a system that allows doctors to monitor more than 40 physiological signs (heart rate, breathing rate, blood pressure, etc.) over extended periods of time. With that a man who suffers from sleep apnea (呼吸暂停) can send the medical data to his doctor on a regular basis. But this product is not available to customers, as it's intended for clinical and medical research.

I believe these products are only the tip of the iceberg. More of them will find their way to our future life, making a difference by combining computer technologies with clothing design.

48. Why are Adam, Eve and Franklin mentioned in the first paragraph?
- A. They can tell the origin of digital fashion.
  - B. They can show a long history of clothing and electronics.
  - C. They can prove that clothing came before electronics.
  - D. They can lead in the subject of the whole passage.
49. The underlined word “inevitable” probably means _____.
A. reasonable      B. unbelievable      C. unavoidable      D. impossible
50. What is TRUE about Vivo Metric's Lifeshirt?
- A. It has saved thousands of people's lives.
  - B. It works similarly as the digital jacket does.
  - C. It has not really benefited the patients yet.
  - D. It has collected a great deal of data for doctors.
51. The writer seems to believe that digital fashion will _____ in the future.
- A. add up to nothing      B. end up as a failure
  - C. lift up our life      D. set up a new business

四、阅读短文，根据短文内容回答问题。（共 8 分，每小题 2 分）

How many times have you boarded a flight and noticed one or two passengers who are acting a bit strangely? They could be suffering from fear of flying. If you have a fear of flying, or find yourself sitting next to a fearful flyer, here is some advice you may like to share with that person.

Don't try to hide your fear. Tell the flight attendant when you board, and the passengers around you when you sit down. Other people can often help to relax and stop worrying.

Ask for a seat at the very front of the plane. You can feel the plane's movement much more at the back of the plane. Take the shortest flight you can and preferably in the biggest plane possible.

Keep busy. Watch the film even if it's bad or you have seen it already. Read a book or do a crossword puzzle.

There are various classes for those who are afraid to fly. In some cases the final test is in an actual airplane flight. The courses used to be quite expensive, but now with cheaper fares, these classes are less expensive as well.

Listen to peaceful and relaxing music.

Finally, remember that walking across the road is more dangerous than flying!
