As a young child, I was quiet and shy. I was also sick for a long time. My parents worked, and I spent a lot of time at my grandparent's home. While my grandmother cleaned the house and cooked, my grandfather played with me.

I was six when my grandfather died. A few months before he died, he gave me a beautiful blue and white blanket (毯子). I loved the blanket very much because it made me think of my grandfather. But after a few years, the blanket didn't look very good. It had holes and was dirty. I didn't want to throw the blanket away, so my mother made the blanket into a book bag. I was proud of the book bag, and I used it to carry my books to school every day for a few years. Then the book bag was broken. I begged my mother to make something out of it. She made it into a pencil-box. After a few months, the pencil-box was broken, too. By then I could sew (缝), and I made the pencil-box into a small wallet.

I used it for three years, but one day I lost it. I felt sad. My friends and family said, "Forget about it, Paul. You can't make something out of nothing."

I thought about it for a while. I decided my friends and family were wrong. There was a way to make something out of nothing. I wrote down the story of my grandfather's blanket.

Are you sometimes a little tired and sleepy in the early afternoon? Many people feel this way after lunch. They may think that eating lunch is the cause of the sleepiness. Or, in summer, they may think it is the heat. However, the real reason lies inside their bodies. At that time—about eight hours after you wake up—your body temperature goes down. This is what makes you slow down and feel sleepy.

Scientists have tested sleep habits in experiments where there was no night or day. The people in these experiments almost always followed a similar sleeping pattern. They slept for one long period and then for one short period about eight hours later.

In many parts of the world, people take naps in the middle of the day. This is especially true in warmer climates, where the heat makes work difficult in the early afternoon. Researchers are now saying that naps are good for everyone in any climate. A daily nap gives one a more rested body and mind and therefore is good for health in general. In countries where naps are traditional, people often suffer(遭受) less from problems such as heart disease. Many working people, unfortunately, have no time to take naps. Though doctors may advise taking naps, employers do not allow it!

If you do have the chance, however, here are a few tips about making the most of your nap. Remember that the best time to take a nap is about eight hours after you get up. A short sleep too late in the day may only make you feel more tired and sleepy afterward. This can also happen if you sleep for too long. If you do not have enough time, try a short nap—even ten minutes of sleep can be helpful.

41. Why do you sometimes feel sleepy in the early afternoon?

- A. Because it's very hot in summer. B. Because you eat too much for lunch.
C. Because you didn't have a good sleep last night.
D. Because your body temperature goes down at that time.

42. What advice does the writer give on taking a nap?

- A. If your time is limited, a short nap can also help.
B. Only people in warmer climate need to take a nap.
C. You'd better take a nap about an hour after you have lunch.
D. You can sleep as long as you like so that you won't feel tired or sleepy.

43. What can we learn about "naps" according to the third paragraph?

- A. Doctors need to take naps while employers don't.
B. Taking naps is helpful for people's health in spring and summer.
C. If you take naps every day, you'll have less risk of heart disease.
D. All the people in warmer climates take naps in the middle of the day.

44. What can we infer(推断) from the passage?

- A. You will feel less sleepy if you sleep for a long time.
B. Taking a nap whenever you want will do good to your health.
C. If you get up at 6:30 am, you'd better take a nap at about 2:30 pm.
D. Sleeping for eight hours and you'll feel sleepy a short period later.

45. What would be the best title for the text?

- A. Just For a Rest. B. All For a Nap.
C. A Special Sleep Pattern. D. Taking Naps in Warmer Climate.

All good lessons and habits begin early. Saving is a skill that everyone needs. Learning to save money when you are young is an important lesson.

I have been luck to learn this lesson early; I have had a grass-cutting business when I was 10 years old. I spent about 10% of the money that I made and save the other90%. Saving money is a good way to build up wealth. Then you can begin planning for your future. For example:

At high school many parents pay for almost everything, so your cost can be small. 72① _____ Young people should realize that their teenage years is a great time to begin saving.

After high school, college is expensive and “real” life begins. 72② _____ If you are in your thirties without any savings, you will have to work harder. 78 the earlier you begin saving, the easier your life will be.

As you get older, it can be harder to start saving because the cost of the living is higher You need more money to pay your bills.

Many people say that money is not everything. It is true. But money can help you to live a better life. Besides, it will mean you can live the way you want.

71. When did “I” start to save money? _____
- 72.请从 A、B、C 中为 72①②选择合适的选项,
- A. If you have some money, going to college will be much easier.
- B. If you have some pocket money, you should save a little.
