The doctors in Children's Hospital are asking for money for children's toys (玩具). Some children in the hospital must stay in bed for many weeks. Toys are needed to keep these sick (生病的) children happy and quiet. Money for them can be sent to the hospital.

After Mrs. Weeks read the story, she said, "This story gave me an idea."

"You want us to bring some money for the toys." "We could bring some of our own toys for the children in the hospital." said the boys and girls one after another.

"Well, your ideas would be nice," Mrs. Weeks said, "but mine is different."

"We could make some toys." shouted one of them.

Mrs. Weeks smiled. "Do you think you could make toys?" she asked.

"Yes, yes." the whole class answered.

"Great! Let's begin to make toys tomorrow." said Mrs. Weeks.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Weeks took children to the hospital with the toys made by her students. The children in the class felt happy, too.

A few days later, Mrs. Weeks read another newspaper story to the class:

Some school pupils brought toys to Children's Hospital last week. The toys were made by the pupils of Grade Three in Green Street School. The doctor said, "We have never had so many wonderful toys. Our children are very happy with them. They say, 'THANK YOU, GRADE THREE.'"

Reading is the key to school success and, like any skill, it takes practice. A child learns to walk by practicing until he no longer has to think about how to put one foot in front of the other. An excellent sportsman practices until he can play quickly, correctly and without thinking. Educators call it "automaticity (自动性)".

A child learns to read by sounding out the letters and finding the meaning of the words. With practice, he stumbles less and less, reading by the phrase (短语). With automaticity, he doesn't have to think about the meaning of words, so he can give all his attention to the meaning of the text.

It can begin as early as first grade. In a recent study of children in Illinois schools, Alan Rossman of Northwestern University found that automatic readers in the first grade not only read almost three times as fast as the others, but also got better results in exams.

According to Rossman, the key to automaticity is the amount (数量) of time a child spends reading, not his IQ. Any child who spends at least 3.5 to 4 hours a week reading books, magazines or newspapers will probably reach automaticity. It can happen if a child turns off TV just one night for reading at home.

You can test yourself by reading something new which is suitable (适合) for your level. If you read aloud with expression, with a sense of the meaning of the sentences, you probably are an automatic reader. If you read brokenly, one word at a time, without expression or meaning, you need more practice.

66. "Reading is the key to school success" means that reading _____.

- A. helps school develop faster
- B. is a key to a successful school
- C. helps students go to a key school
- D. can improve students' learning results

67. The underlined word "stumble" in the passage means "_____ " in Chinese.

- A. 结结巴巴地读
- B. 全神贯注地读
- C. 心不在焉地读
- D. 声情并茂地读

68. Children with "automaticity" can read faster because they _____.

- A. know how to read the words
- B. do not have to think while reading
- C. read by themselves without any help
- D. pay attention to the meaning of the text

69. Rossman tells that any child who _____ will possibly be an automatic reader.

- A. turns off TV one night 4 weeks
- B. reads books by the word quickly
- C. spends an hour reading every day
- D. gets the same grades as others in exams

70. The best title for the passage is "_____".

- A. IQ Is the Key to the Automaticity
- B. TV Is Bad for Children's Reading
- C. Automaticity Depends on Practice
- D. Automatic Reads Will Be Successful
