We can learn a lot about a place, its history and culture from a postcard and the stamp on it. In 2005, some postcard collectors from different countries started a project. First, they created a website called www.postcrossing.com. Then people from all over the world could join and become members. The members send each other postcards. As a result, they make new friends and learn about the cultures and history of different countries.

I collect postcards. I started the collection two years ago.

Now I have over 100 different postcards. Some show famous places of interest. Some show great works of art. My favourite postcard is from France. It has a picture of the Eiffel Tower on it.

It is easy to get postcard. Friends send them to each other for holidays or birthdays.

I like collecting postcards. They are beautiful and teach me a lot about different places.
