Do you know Li Ziqi? She is a popular online star and a vlogger (视频博主) who enjoys a fan base of more than 23 million people on Sina Weibo (新浪微博) and over 7 million followers on YouTube. Her videos show a traditional Chinese way of life in the rural areas of Sichuan province. From making paper to making clothes, from making the silk quilt to making bamboo furniture, nothing seems impossible for her. But her most eye-catching craft (手艺) is cooking.

Li was born in 1990 in a village of Mianyang, Sichuan province. At the age of 14, when most of the kids of the same age went to middle school, Li dropped out of school and tried to support her family by doing different jobs in big cities. In 2012, because her grandmother fell ill, Li decided to move back home to look after her. In 2016, Li started making videos to show her life in her hometown. She wanted to create something for people to watch and relax. “When I worked in the city, it was about how to survive (生存). Now when I work in the countryside, I feel like I’m truly living.” Li said.

But her videos did more than that. “She uses things that are common in life, but I never gave any thought to where those things came from. Thank you for giving me an opportunity (机会) to get to know them better,” someone wrote on Sina Weibo. A foreign fan on YouTube said, “Amazing... I can see how wise Chinese people have been with cooking.”

Some say the success of Li Ziqi’s videos lies in her love — love for her grandmother, for her life and for her culture. Yes, her love touches people from both home and abroad.
