There was once a stone in the garden of a family. Whenever the family passed through the garden, they would always be tripped by the stone.

One day, the son said to his father, "I hate the stone. Why don't we move it away?"

The father said, "It was there when your grandfather was alive. It is so big. I'm afraid we can't move it. Just be careful when you walk past it."

Twenty years later, the son grew up and had his own son. One day, his son said to him, "There is a big stone in the garden. Shall we move it away?"

The father said, "That stone is too heavy. If I could move it, I would have done it many years ago. " But the son made up his mind to move it.

One morning, the son brought some tools to the garden. He dug around the stone. He thought that it would take him the whole day to move the stone. To his surprise, it only took him twenty minutes to move the stone. The stone wasn't as heavy as they thought at all.

My wife Jane and I just had a wonderful week in Qingdao with our grandson Tom. We spent happy days at the beach (海滩), went fishing, ate at fine restaurants and just 41 being together.

We all had a good time, 42 then came the saddest time. We had to say 43.

We planned to leave early the next morning, so 44 we hugged Tom before bedtime, I knew it was also goodbye. He said with 45, “Grandpa, I don’t want you to go.”

I could exactly know how he 46, so I tried to wipe away the tears in his eyes. When I wasn’t sure 47 I should say to him, Tom sat close to me and said, “Could you 48 me a note like you did last time?” It took me a while to realise(意识到) what he was 49. I remembered when we left from our last visit, 50 wrote him a note and put it on his desk.

So later that night, I prepared some 51 for my grandson and hid (藏) them in places where I knew he could find them: by the 52 where he could watch the animal shows, in his school books, and on the beach towel he could use when he went out to the pool. I 53 my sweet Tom would feel loved again when he found the notes.

I believe that many people once 54 love notes like Tom and that many people once left this kind of notes to their loved ones. 55 offers(提供) directions for our lives, and comfort for days when we’re hurt. I hope that everyone will get love whenever they need it!

四、语篇填空（15 小题，每小题 1 分，共 15 分）

第一节 阅读短文，从方框中选择适当的词并用其正确形式填空，是短文通顺、意思完整。每空限填一词，每次限用一次。

happy    want    however    you    slow    good    until    high    face    health

My Dear Azhaan,

I want you to know that you remind（提醒） me of myself in so many ways. You are like a better and improved version（版本） of me. I look at you and I see myself in 56 eyes. I wish I had that confidence（信心） and even some of your bossiness（霸气） at that age. Yet（然而）， I'm also troubled on seeing this confidence 57 disappearing, because you are 58 many different things. I want you to know that your confidence is one of the 59 things about you. All of us admire your confidence. 60, you are not confident enough these days, because you are beginning to dislike your own body.

You are not fat. I agree that you could be a little 61. You could eat a little less junk food. However, I don't know when you'll begin to enjoy fruits, but I believe that you will.

I think one of the moments of 62 for me was when you were born, and the doctor said "Congratulations, you have another baby boy," not because you were a boy but because you were healthy.

You're too young to understand this now— no one realizes the importance of a normal life 63 it is away from them. What I 64 for you is happiness. I understand that you are not perfect and that it is okay because none of us is!

Stay confident and keep your head 65, my little boy—who is growing up too soon!

Love,

Ammi
