A

One day, the teacher walked into the classroom with some beautiful flowers in her hand. She stood on the platform (讲台) and said, “I got the beautiful flowers this morning. Please smell the air and tell me what you think.”

Then one student put up his hand and said, “The air is sweet. It is the smell of the flowers.” The teacher took the flowers and walked by each of the students. “Smell again to see if the smell of the flowers is still in the air,” she said.

After a while, half of the students put up their hands to show that they could smell it. The teacher returned to the front of the classroom and asked again if the students could smell the flowers. All the students put up their hands except one student. The teacher came to the student and asked, “Can you smell the sweet air?”

The student answered, “No, I can't smell it. In fact, I don't think the flowers are real.” The teacher smiled. Then she turned to the class and said, “He is right! These are not real flowers. Some of you may think that the flowers are not real. But you don't have self-confidence to speak your mind. That's the lesson you should learn today.”

It was a normal Friday. Mrs. Lacey got up early as usual and started to get her children ready for school. And her husband went to work by himself.

After everything was ready, Mrs. Lacey drove to send her daughters to the bus stop. Suddenly the car broke down, causing a terrible accident and killing the poor mother at once.

Mrs. Lacey's oldest daughter, Amy, was in the front seat when the accident happened. The five-year-old girl witnessed her mother's death. Instead of crying or being too afraid to do anything, the girl started saving her younger sisters.

Her four-year-old sister and two-year-old twins sat behind her. The girl tried her best to help her sisters. She not only got all her sisters out of the car, but also walked for a long time to call for help. On the way home the girl kept looking after her younger sisters.

"It's hard to believe Amy could be so calm (冷静的) in that situation," Mrs. Lacey's brother said. "Who knows what will happen if they stay in the car? She saved all her sisters' lives!"

Life will be hard for the poor girls and their father. But what the little girl did really played a role in encouraging the whole family to move on.

C

Nowadays, more and more students go abroad to learn English. It's true that studying in an English-speaking country is a good way, but there are some other good ways.

Practicing speaking

You may study for years and learn all of the grammar rules, but unless you actually speak it, you will never speak well. When you are practicing speaking, remember not to be shy and keep on it.

Talking to yourself

When you learn a foreign language, it's common for you to develop listening skills more quickly than speaking skills. This is why so many language learners may be able to understand a foreign language a lot better than actually speak it. A good way to solve this problem is to talk to yourself as much as possible.

Using the mobile app — Duolingo

For beginners, the app can help you learn words, phrases and sentences, depending on your decision. The app will make you go through a test. And Duolingo will provide learning materials (材料) to develop your vocabulary according to your ability.

Reading aloud

Try reading out loud. You will get a lot from reading. As a beginner, you should read aloud as much as possible. You may not feel it right away, but all those hours of reading out loud to yourself will help you speak well.

49. If you can understand the words but can't reply, what should you do?

- A. Find a partner.
- B. Read more books.
- C. Talk to your mother.
- D. Talk to yourself.

50. What can we know about Duolingo according to the passage?

- A. It can help you develop your listening skills quickly.
- B. You can learn words, phrases and sentences through it.
- C. It will provide listening materials according to your ability.
- D. You can practice speaking English through it.

51. What does the underlined word "it" refer to?

- A. What you get from reading.
- B. The mobile app.
- C. The English-speaking country.
- D. The writing skill.

52. Why did the writer write the passage?

- A. To encourage us to learn English.
- B. To explain the reason to learn English.
- C. To give some ways to learn English.
- D. To show how to make friends with native speakers.

With the development of technology and the Internet, there is a new trend in reading. More people are choosing to listen to audiobooks (有声书) these days, according to this year's national reading report.

The report was from the Chinese Academy of Press and Publication (CAPP). It shows that audiobooks have become quite popular among most readers. One in three adults listens to audiobooks. They mainly use popular audio sharing platforms (平台) like Ximalaya.

Kids have also played an important role in the development of audiobooks. Ximalaya noted that the value of audiobooks made by (被创造) those aged 13 to 18 in 2018 increased by 330 percent over that of 2017, the Beijing Evening News reported.

What's more, around 26.8 percent of children under 8 years old listen to audiobooks. Most of them listen at least once a week. Their favorite programs are "stories for kids" and "poetry reading".

One of the reasons audiobooks have been so popular is that people want to make full use of their free time, China News Service reported. Whether they're at the gym, on a bus, or in bed, people can enjoy reading without a heavy paper book or e-reader. Faster Internet speeds mean one can download a whole book in just seconds, according to Wei Yushan, director of CAPP.

Audio app content designers (音频应用程序内容设计师) have invited broadcasters (播音员) and production groups to join in content production. Both the quality and number of audiobooks have greatly improved. More people can find the audiobooks they like the most, the report says.

53. The underlined word “trend” in the passage means “_____”.
- A. direction B. work C. conversation D. treat
54. When do people use these audiobooks?
- A. In the evening. B. After school.
- C. In their free time. D. On weekends.
55. What’s the best title for the passage?
- A. Read your books aloud B. A new way to read
- C. What are audiobooks? D. When to use audiobooks?
