On a Friday night, a poor young violinist was playing his violin at the entrance (入口) of the subway station. The music was so great that people slowed down to listen and put some money into his hat.

The next day, the violinist came to the entrance again. He put down his hat as usual. Beside the hat was a piece of paper with some words on it. It said, "George Sang has put an important thing into my hat by mistake. Welcome to claim (认领) it." Soon the people were all attracted by the words and wondered what it could be. After a while a man rushed through the crowd, took the violinist's shoulders and said, "I knew you would certainly come here." The violinist asked, "Did you lose something?" "Lottery (彩票)." The violinist took out a lottery ticket with Sang's name on it and danced happily.

Sang was an office worker. He bought the lottery and won a prize of $500,000. But when he gave $50 to the violinist for his wonderful music, the lottery ticket was thrown in, too. The violinist was a college student. That morning, he was going to fly to Vienna for high education. However, when he found the ticket, he cancelled the flight and returned to the entrance.

Later someone asked the violinist why he didn't take the lottery ticket to pay for his high education. He said "Although I don't have much money, I live happily. If I lose honesty (诚实), I won't be happy forever.

Beibei is a 6-year-old girl from Beijing. She is a single child in a rich family. During a family trip to Shanghai, she made her parents feel ashamed (难为情的). When taking the crowded subway, Beibei said to her mom, "Ask someone to offer me a seat." Her mom told her to sit on their bags, but she was angry and didn't talk anymore.

Why did the girl behave like that? According to Zhang Yiyun, a Chinese EQ education expert (专家) from Taiwan, many single children are self-centred. They don't have the skill to solve trouble. Self-centeredness is one of the problems caused by a low EQ.

EQ is the ability to know our own feelings and those of others, and also manage our emotions (情感) and relationships. Most people know that IQ is important, but EQ is probably more important in daily life. When facing an exam, EQ helps us to manage stress (压力). When getting along with friends or parents, EQ helps us to communicate well.

EQ is shaped partly by genetics (遗传学). "You can see some babies are quiet, while others have bad tempers," Zhang Yiyun told Xinhua News Agency. EQ is also something you can learn for yourself. You can learn what different feelings might mean and how they relate to yourself and others.

If we learn in the right way, our EQ can get better as we get older. Children with a high EQ usually have greater success with making friends. They are also better able to manage conflicts (矛盾) with others. A high EQ is a combination (结合) of a few different skills, so we'd better learn these skills.

56. Why did Beibei get angry on the subway?

- A. Because the subway was too crowded.
B. Because her mother didn't get a seat for her.
C. Because sitting on the bags made her feel ashamed.
D. Because she didn't like the family trip.

57. People with a low EQ may _____.

- A. get on well with others B. pay more attention to others' feelings
C. seldom get angry in their daily life D. care more about themselves

58. According to the fourth and fifth paragraphs, we know that _____.

- A. people with a high EQ often get high marks in exams
B. genetics decides a person's EQ
C. people can improve their EQ by learning
D. people with a high EQ often fight with each other

59. From the passage, we know that a high EQ can help us in many ways EXCEPT _____.

- A. being self-centered B. managing stress
C. communicating well with others D. making more friends

60. What's the best title of the passage?

- A. The Problem of Single Children B. The Importance of EQ
C. How to Improve Our EQ D. How to Communicate with Parents
